ALLIES PREPARE TO RENEW WAR

TURKS, TOO, ARE ACTIVE IN AR-RANGING TO RESUME WAR.

BOTH SIDES CHARGE BLUFFING

Unconditional Surrender of Adrianople Alone Can Stop Warfare, Is General View Expressed.

London, Jan. 31.—The Balkan allies and the Turks are making active preparations to resume hostilities.

The delegates of the allies to the peace conference here are saying farewell and packing their baggage preparatory to departing from London. A news agency dispatch received here today from Constantinople reported that the Turkish delegates had been ordered home, but the command has not been received here. It seems only the good offices of the powers can avert a further resort to arms, but thus far these apparently have failed.

Even at this late hour each side to the dispute is accusing the other of "bluffing." The Turks declare that in their note to the powers Thursday the allies were given greater concessions as a basis for resuming the peace neotiations than they had expected to be made them at the commencement of the peace negotiations. The allies practically admit this, but say what ould have been acceptable even a fortnight ago cannot now be enterviously is to lead them by the nose for months, counting on the allies financial exhaustion and hoping compli-cations will arise to favor Turkey.

Balkan Peoples Excited. Dr. Daness, head of the Bulgarian delegation, said today that the feelings of the Balkan population must be considered. Excitement among them, he declared, had reached the highest degree against their "fraudulent treatment" by a handful of young Turk conspirators, who had attempted to play with the decision of Europe and the honor, prestige and lives of the Balkan people. the Balkan people

A comparison between the Vatican ELECTORS RETURNS COMPLETE ople, Dr. Daneff said, was inadmis-sible. The Italians, he declared, made oncessions to the papacy after they had taken possession of Rome. In case Adrianopie was vanquished, who would try to impose conditions? he asked. In addition, Dr. Daneff continued, the vatican was the residence of the popf and contained the tombs of apostics and former popes, while Adrianople, with the execution of its mosques, had nothing aboslutely vital to the Mussulman people. Dr. Daneff repeated that nothing could stop a reopening of the war execpt the unconditional surrender of Adrianople and the of Adrianople and the department

foreign minister. Stojan Novakovitch, head of the delegation, told Sir Edward that he considered a renewal of the war inevitable, as the Bulgarians

Exchange of communications between representatives of the powers was active today, but thus far it seems that no practical way has been found to avert a resumption of hostilities. The British government will be greatly disappointed if the conference results failure, especially after the optimistic statements uttered on several occasions by Premier Asquith.

WORK'S RESOLUTION FLOODED WITH PROPOSED AMEND. MENTS-ALL LOST.

ORIGINAL PROVISIONS RESUMED

Measure Emerges From Day's Fight Still Providing for Single Six-Year Presidential Term.

Washington, Jan. 31.-The senate today defeated every attempt to amend he Works' single six-year presidential term resolution. When a recess was taken tonight it appeared certain that a final vote on the proposed consti-tutional amendment would be reached oday and its opponents were using all their strength to defeat it.

As the measure emerged from day's fight in the senate, it still provides for one term of six years for the chief executive and makes incigible to re-election any person who in the past has held the office by election by succession.

The closest votes of the day came on Senator Owens' amendment for a direct popular vote on president and vice president, defeated 35 to 32, and on Senator Paynter's amendment to lengthen to six years the term of the president who might be in office when the constitutional amendment finally was ratified. This home has just left the decorator, hence in finish, color tones and lights, is an atwere such by way of fragrant flower or the rooms, where an unusually brilliant house party spent the three hours And, as one departing guest remarked the most attentive and affable house party known at many a reception. The high brick mantel in the first parlor was set with the now popular Califor-nia baskets, each with its blooming white hyacinth. The second room with its green tiled mantel and broad shell was given the candle in its gleam of the crimson wax. Leading into the re-reshment room was found a den where tones of winter, with spreading foliage ran riot. The cream brick with cake and the usual society dainties, was enjoyed around a table first laid with rich lace cloth and mat, and then touched with the crystal trays and the crimson carnation shower. The mantel showed the same crimson effect. With this by way of room treatment, the women of the house party grouped themselves about, and welcomed the three hundred calling guests. The Million Dollar Jubilee

Tonight the Burroughs representatives in this locality, composed of Mr. Fred Manget, Sales Manager, and C. E. Guertler, Chas. F. Eckert, C. E. Rogers, J. A. Smith, Salesmen, are going to meet in Ft. Worth for the purpose of celebrating their victory over "King Quota."

In the month of December; the Burroughs Sales Force in the United States and Canada, pledged itself to sell $1,000,000 worth of Burroughs machines. This $1,000,000 in Sales was known among the Burroughs men as "King Quota."

In the last thirty days of 1912, the business men of the United States and Canada, actually purchased $1,017,050 worth of Burroughs Adding and Listing Machines, being the largest month's business ever done by the largest company in the world making and selling adding and listing machines.

This is strictly complimentary to our efficient organization and sales force, but the broad significance lies in two things: first, the simple but wonderful and economic business principle of handling figures with a machine is becoming better understood throughout the land; second, that the enormous majority by which the Burroughs is selected is our guarantee as it is yoursthat these machines are right.

The Burroughs Adding Machine Company wishes, on this occasion, to thank the business men of America and particularly those in Waco, who, by their confidence in the Burroughs product and their appreciation of its value to them, have made this remarkable record possible.

HOUSEWORK WILL PAY.

Mr. Meyer Bloomfield, director of the vocational bureau in Boston, went Governor Marshall several "better" in an address to the Woman's Forum recently.

"It takes brains to be a good cook," he said, "while anyone could be an average lawyer, doctor, dentist or druggist." The vice president-elect merely found that "good cooks are more necessary than governors." who in turn are less necessary than at least the last three vocations named by the civic worker in the Hub.

Discussing this premise with women in his audience, Mr. Bloomfield offered the striking opinion that housework is "the coming vocation." It would seem the steady increase in the number of domestic science courses in the curricula of schools and colleges elsewhere gives substance to this view. Leader. questioning, that it is no longer dif- sound cold-blooded to the casual ficult to get the worthwhile girl in evening schools to study domestic sciences as a part of their course, even if they will not wholly abandon the commercial courses for which the

"Some cities," Mr. Bloomfield reminded, "have splendid buildings for the domestic sciences; they take a high rank, prejudices are set aside, But since than I have learned 'twas and there are even waiting lists of domestic science students."

Under Texas' rural high school law, with its altogether too tiny annual appropriation of fifty thousand dolbe established in rural schools, with State aid. But there has been comparatively no demand for such courses, aid being asked nine times in ten, probably, for the establishment of courses in agriculture, or manual training, or both. The State University, College of Industrial Arts, and the normal schools have an end in the teaching of practical economy of housework, but we think those immediately connected with the courses will be the first to agree that more money should be devoted to the work, more students and more earnest

For housework is not only "the coming vocation;" it is an omnipresent need, especially in this day of the girls in this State are sent away to school, removed from even the scantiest of home training according to the means of their parents, the need of skilled training in domestic science ecomes more imperative.

Women for School Trustees. (Cleburne Review.) Waco is taking our breath away. She has two ladies out on the ticket for school trustees, and the Waco Morning News is conscientiously supporting this ticket, the "Mothers' " ticket, as it is Mr. A. R. McCollum, the veteran editor, whose opinion has great weight over the entire state, has said, according to the News, "you are right, go ahead." The argument advanced go ahead." The argument advanced by the News in favor of the election of women to this position is that as mothers they ought to know as much or more than any one else what the children's needs are. This we cannot gainsay; on the other hand, we are bound to admit its truth. We are compelled to believe also, that women trustees will be equally solicitous, if not more so, than men for the welfare of the children. MODERN CLASSIC

WALTER BROWNE'S MORALITY PLAY MAKES POWERFUL APPEAL

Great Audience Pays Tribute to Humanity Lesson-Matinee and Evening Performances Today.

(By M. M. Harris.)

At The Auditorium: "Everywoman," a morality play in ive canticles, by Mr. Walter Browns, who died before he could be rewarded for his work in the realization that the modern stage and the hearts of men owe him an immeasurable debt of gratitude. It is a flawless classic, ork of strength, tenderness and charity; it teaches a finer morality than most men dream of, approximating the lesson of human kindness given in the Sermon on the Mount. That writer who found it Shakespearian in conception was bestowing no reckless encomium. In some phases it reaches beights that the Sage of Avon reached with a touch less ennobling.

Every man and woman old enough understand its simple, staunch teaching should see "Everywoman."

this play may be pardoned, is an enest critic—and "Nobody loves Truth" when his review must be any-thing less than unqualified praise. No word not wholly kind has ever been written of the story of Everywoman's pilgrimage in search of love, of Mr. Savage's production of it and the splendid staging of it by Mr. George Marion. The American people has loved the play, those skilled in playgreat hearts have urged it be seen as a greater morality than they could when there is something of whimsical allegory and the lines demand careful following. There are dazzling spec-tacles, then there are quiet moments and long silences. One hangs on the exquisite verse from the moment No-body, before the curtain is drawn, bespeaks the kindness of the auditors 'til he bids them farewell, craving their and on the experience of she who is the embodiment of the mind of every

Truth, if a rude paraphrase of a line

Be merciful, be just, be fair To every woman, everywhere. Her faults are many. Nobody's the night than have seen any play of the local season. More people will see it this afternoon and tonight, for men and women of the sort who came away with the grandeur of that admonition and the moving story that led to its speaking in mind will ask their friends and their children to go to the play, the greatest of modern times.

Women wept and some men, but it was not an unhappy emotion; was it the expression of genuine sympathy in a true portrayal of the mind-life of every thinking person who has, or had, ideals and ambitions to find the happiness of unsulfied love. It is his life.

The story of this play is thus outlined: Accompanied by Youth, Beauty and Modesty, Everywoman sets her pilgrimage in quest of Love. places: A great playhouse, where she is wooed by Passion, an actor, and Modesty forsakes her; by Wealth, a magnate, and Witless, a nobleman, and Beauty perishes. She plunges into dis-sipation, burns life's candle at both sipation. nds and in the third act is banqueted t midnight in her luxurious apartments by the moths and bats her beauty has attracted. One after an other her illusions are shattered until in the fourth act, on Broadway, on New Year's Eve, in the riot and carnival of the mad holiday, when the old year is passing and the new year aorning, and Youth at last is slain by ime, she wanders alone.

But after all the glad, wild, bitter pilgrimage rushed into by the wiles of Flattery, in spite of the warning of Truth and the wisdom of Nobody Everywoman returns to Truth and is led to King Love the First, the son of inspiring over the desperate Every-woman as she sees the body of her Youth borne into the church on Broad. way, pointed her to Truth (no longer old and haggard as when Everywoman listened to Flattery, but young and beautiful), a woman seated near the writer sobbed, "Thank God!"

So one sees Everywoman, after meeting and knowing Youth, Beauty and Modesty, set forth pure and beau-tiful to seek the king Flattery tells her is awaiting her in the world where her beauty will make her Queen of Love. Nobody follows and warns her through it all; Conscience, Morality, Truth seek always to reclaim her. Love is not Passion, the romantic actor; he not Wealth, the millionaire, or Witless, the peer. She yields to rassion and Modesty is banished, wealth courts her, and Witless, and Beauty dies of dissipation and the weakening of morality. Plain and friendless, Everywoman goes out into the widness of revelry on New York's great thoroughfare on New Year's eve, where she meets Vice and for Vice is cast aside by Wealth. Truth triumphs, and Love is made known to her.

The first canticle is a room in Everywoman's house; the second the stage of a New York theatre where she is a star and first is brought into she is a star and first is brought into peril; the third, her gorgeous apartments in the city, where she banquets those who have poisoned her soul; then is the remarkable New Year's scene on the street, when she drains the cap of disillusionment; then the conquest of Truth, the coming of Love into her home, the return of Modesty.

The staging is unparalleled in its trueness to the story; the New Year's crowd is unusually well handled and crowd is unusually well handled and representative in costuming; and the snowstorm concluding this canticle, with the street deserted save for Everywoman, Truth and Nobody who smiles above them in benediction of the redemption of this woman's mind, is an inspiring picture. Mr. Walter Bur-ridge painted the scenes and Mr. Marion has achieved perfection in the staging of them. The writer would name but three members of this large cast for espe-cial notice. He has said it is a cast of types, and that is no less than saying it is a company of able players.

There is no exception, in point of skilled, apt characterization in pearance and manner of reading. play could not be given by mediocre players and succeed, nevertheless it is players and succeed, nevertheless it is a play that carries lise; in greater degree than any he has in mind. But the surest tribute possible to Mr. Sav-age's company is that it understands and rises to the beauty and dignity and strength of this masterplece.

But acting of the sort given the part of Nobody—the Voice, or "chorus" of the play—would be distinguished in any company of players. Mr. Or-Monde's interpretation was admirably inspiriting. Tall, slender, with a strong, wonderfully expressive face (ascetic, severe or pitying as the situ-ation moved his words), one finds the best description to be that he was the backbone of the play—the firmness and courage of it. His voice is not "pleasant" as the word is used gen-erally, it is more—it is a power to bring smiles and tears. Robed and hooded, with the greenish light always on his face, he was the very likeness of Mr. Sargent's "Hosea." His read-ing in the street scene was notably impressive.

Miss Blood, beautifully formed and a radiant blonde, was best in Every-woman's lighter verses, but the comparison is a comparison merely, for her acting at all times was thoroughly praiseworthy, and, for an instance of assured ability in the emotional lines, one must commend her reading at the dramatic climax of the banquet scene. Miss Rathnour, Modesty, a class cape cially commended for the speetness clearness of enunciation. It is a rarely beautiful group of women—Every-woman, Youth, Beauty and Modesty. Miss Marsden is given the song of the play, the voice of Conscience that dis. turbs Everywoman in the theatre, that stills the riotous laughter at the ban-quet and recalls her to Truth when Youth passes away. Her voice is soft and clear, and the music at these vital moments in the story, with some of the subdued incidental orche tion, adds much to the charm and acwoman's struggle to retain her good-

All gratitude to those in any way concerned in the presentation of "Everywoman." It is a maker of thought and character.

Austin, Texas, Jan. 31.-A strong effort will be made to get finally enacted a bill placing all county officers on a salary basis and if these officials who stormed into Austin to protest against such a bill think that their trouble is at an end they are mis-

Governor Colquitt, together with Senator Carter and Representatives Reeves and Davis, conferred at length this evening about a bill which will place the officers on what is practically a salary basis. The bill will be offered as a substitute for the first bill, to which constitutiona objections were found by the attorney general. All those officers who cannot be put on a straight salary basis—that applies to the sheriffs and prosecut-ing attorneys and county judges—will see drafted into a new bill that they shall receive so much in fees up to a certain maximum and that all above that point shall go into the treasury.

There will be a cetrain limit within which the commissioners' court may place the maximum, as in the other bill, and it will be a liberal one, none of the advocates of the abolition of the fee system being in sympathy with a niggardly salary bill. In addition to this bill there will be drawn a resolution providing for the submission of a constitutional amendall officers on a salary basis. To elimi nate the constitutional objection it will be urged for adoption, as will a bill urging that the feeding of prisoners be taken from the hands of the sher-

The last chance!

This is the last day of balloting. Tonight, at 10 o'clock, the polls will close in the great Morning News contest. Then the doors of the Morning News office will be locked and no one will be admitted to the office. All

But the last chance is always the best. One final, supreme effort to-day may land the prize for any one of the fair candidates. The friends who responded with support before can hardly refuse at the moment when a little help means victory.

Candidates should get their subscriptions in as early as possible to-day, for the biggest business of any day of the contest is sure to be re-corded. Get the subscriptions in early and you will have time to spend in getting in a few more. Nothing can be gained in holding them to the very last hour, for absolute secrecy will be maintained regarding what is turned in by the various candidates.

There will be an extra force of clerks and assistants to take care of rush business.
Announcement of Winners.

If the counting of the votes goes on as expected, the names of the win-ners of the many grand prizes will be announced at midnight. On Sunday norning the happiest young women in Central Texas will be the ones who will read in the Morning News that they have won a prize. The vote of each candidate will be published. Since the last standing of bunday there has been an avalanche of special ballots every day. The uncertainty has stimulated every candidate to increase her vote by every who want to see you win. It is up to ballot possible, for each has realized that her rival was doing the very same thing. The battle of the ballots has been waged at a record-breaking pace these last few days.

Of course, there will be surprises All and disappointments when the result those who are in before this hour will is announced. Who knows how many be waited on. "dark horses," to use an apt politithe result of the final hours of bal-loting today? Some fair contestant may lose the coveted prize by just a few votes, and some may win by as small a margin. Each candidate should work today, so that if defeated, she will have no regrets over a failure to take advantage of an opportunity to win. She should be able to say that she did her very best, and that was all she could do.

> The Greatest Contest Ever. The Morning News contest has been an unprecedented success from its inception. No similar contest ever conducted in the state has aroused greater public interest in some can-didate and all are willing to help their favorites. It has been fairly fought by the scores of candidates who were nominated and the best campaigners are going to win. It is a pleasure for the Morning News to reward them for their efforts with many of the many high-grade prizes. Today—Saturday—Is the Day—Today

Is the Last Chance. Remember that for every thousand votes you have to deposit today, you nearest rival in your district may have two thousand.

Favorable report was made on the resolution providing a constitutional amendment allowing the issuance of road bonds by majority vote.

Mrs. O. B. Colquitt, wife of Governor

Colquitt, appeared before the house committee on public health today to urge the passage of a bill providing a regular appropriation for a traveling health exhibit and requiring publicity for communicable diseases, issuance of bulletins, etc. The committee reported the bill favorably. Mrs. Colquitt has taken great interest in health matters The committee reported adversely Morris' bill prohibiting the use of benzoate of soda and saccharine in food; also his bill requiring special preparation of paupers for burial.

COTTON LOSES SOME ACTIVITY

Weekly Report of Deals of Past Week Show More Steadiness, but Less Favorable.

New York, Jan. 31,-The cotton market has been less active during the past week, and fluctuations have per cent of the cotton crop has been been comparatively narrow, with the marketed and for the same five months trade evidently inclined to go slowly, pending a nearer view of the new crop or some change in the spot situa-> speculative interests have expressed bullish views of the situation, but in many other quarters bearish sentiment appears to prevail owing to the reports of a slack spot demand and continued feeling that the approach of the plowing season may bring increased pressure of actual.

On neither side, however, has the trading been aggressive, and much of the business has probably reflected undoing of old straddles. Meanwhile both foreign and domestic spinners appear indifferent. Trading accounts indicate continued activity among the centers affected by Balkan troubles but spinners seem well enough supplied with raw material to keep their wheels turning for some time to come and further decline in ocean freight rates have failed to stimulate any immediate improvement in the export demand. Domestic mills are supposed to have considerable cotton still to buy before the end of the season, but with stocks on hand sufficient to last up to the end of April or early May. On the average, they are believed to be holding off in the hope of lower prices.

Index these conditions the market is single feature, receipts being small, with quality common. Beef steers were strong; cows steady, stocker stuff unchanged and salves steady. Hogs sold at a decline of 5 cents. Lambs were strong to 25c higher with a top of $6.50.

There were about 144 more county poll taxes issued in the six wards in Waco than the total number of city poll taxes issued, which means that this number of qualified voters have paid one poll tax and failed to pay the other and cannot participate in the cit. The following shows the number county poll taxes paid in the wards: First ward, 447; exemptions, 88, Second ward, 897; exemptions, 167. Third ward, 727; exemptions, 147. Fourth ward, 492; exemptions, 134. Fifth ward, 274; exemptions, 63. Sixth ward, 367; exemptions, 69. Total, 3,204; exemptions, 668.

or's offices were open until 12 o'clos last night in order to give the voters the last available minute to get a "privilege to vote." The county tax assessor had a large force at work all day yesterday and until midnight fill-ing out and mailing poll tax receipts to voters in the county who waited until

If the figures given out by the city tax assessor and collector are accuand they will not vary but few of exemptions the county records show there will be 3,735 voters who may participate in the coming city election.
